In the winter of 1999 we installed a MOCO Sticker Accumulation System at each of our planer operations in Bieber and Burney, California.

The installations were completed over a weekend and both started up flawlessly.

These systems are far superior to the prior mechanical systems we had built ourselves, and reduced labor costs in one plant by eliminating the need for a person stacking stickers.

We have reduced sticker breakage and increased green stacker efficiency by more even stacking in sticker racks.

The service support after installation has been exceptional. The system requires very little attention and is simple in design and operation.

We at Big Valley Lumber Company are very satisfied with the MOCO Sticker Accumulation System and would highly recommend it to anyone considering a system for their operations.
